Calley Lawyer Fearing Unfair Military Trial

The civilian attorney for Lt. William L. Calley Jr. says he feels it will be impossible for his client to receive a fair military trial because "everybody has gotten into the act on this case.

"They want to get on television and they want to talk," said George W. Latimer of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Earlier Monday, Latimer and Calley's military lawyer, Maj. Kennedy A. Raby, filed a motion here to dismiss all charges against Calley, 26, on grounds that he cannot get a fair trial because of prejudicial news coverage which has created "a vast amount of public passion' against him.

Latimer referred to widespread comments and published accounts on the Army's case against Calley, charged with slaying 109 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai on March 16, 1968.

"I'm only saying that he (Calley) couldn't have a fair trial in military court," Latimer said. "I wouldn't rule out any other possibility because too many other things are still under dis-

Frosted Banana

For what it's worth, the Escanaba area is running better than a week ahead of its pace of last year when snowfall for December set an alltime record.

The six-inch accumulation Sunday brought the total on the ground to seven inches, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau. Last year, snow depth didn't get that high until nearly nine inches fell in the area on December 19.

The winter of 1968-69, of course, will be remembered as one of the worst in history. Once the first snow hit, the community didn't stop digging until mid-January. By then enough snow had fallen for the whole winter, capped by the 12-inch blash on Jan. 8-9 which shutdown practically every activity and kept all but the snowmobilers at home.

To compare early snows this year with those of a year ago is as meaningless as comparing Reggie Jackson's early season home-run heroics to those at a comparable time of Babe Ruth or Roger Maris. There is no validity for comparison until the entire season is completed.

But last year's experience provided a valuable lesson. The area is better prepared this season.

A year ago, the City of Escanaba waited until the big storm in January before declaring a snow emergency.

Instead of waiting for an emergency to develop this season, the city began to take some of those "emergency" preparations ahead of time. Last week the winter parking regulations - one side of the street only at any time and half-hour parking between the hours of 2 a. m. and 7 a. m. - were put into effect. The regulations follow very closely the "emergency" precautions of last January and are designed to keep streets free from parked automobiles which hinder snowplows and also to insure traffic lanes will be open at all times for emergency vehicles.

The city also "staked" out fire hydrants for easy location before they got buried in heavy drifts from plowing and residential sidewalk clearing.

The snows of last winter were a little out of character for the area, which likes to describe itself as the "Banana Belt" of the Upper Peninsula, but the precautions against a repeat performance this year are well advised,

Before yielding the "Banana Belt" label, however, a comparison with other areas of the U. P. might be in order.

Escanaba escaped November without any appreciable snow. Parts of the western and eastern U. P. had up to 14 inches in a single storm. And while last year's snowfall set a record for December, the season's accumulation was less than half of that in some of the other communities. With seven inches of snow on the ground in the second week of December, it's hard to take the "Banana Belt" label seriously, though.

Maybe from now on we'll have to modify the slogan. How about "Frosted Banana Belt?"

Maximum Sense

On the subject of minimum wages, some elements within the Nixon administration have come forth with a proposal that makes maximum sense.

Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans endorsed the idea of "youth wage," pegged substantially lower than the regular federal minimum wage, that would permit idle teenagers who have been priced out of the job market to be employed.

The proposal calls for a special "youth wage" of $1.20 or $1.25 an hour for persons under 21. Upon coming of age, they would receive the regular federal minimum of $1.60 an

That such a reform is now being discussed at the highest levels of government indicates that at least part of the Nixon administration understands the counter-productive effects of the minimum wage and how to deal with them. The intent of minimum wages is to legislate a high standard of living. Their effect, however, has been to legislate many people out of jobs and close the doors of opportunity to others.

Prof. Yale Brozen and other economists at the University of Chicago have documented the fact that the federal minimum wage contributes to unemployment in several categories of workers — especially among young people. A person with little experience whose labor is worth $1.25 an hour simply is not hired if the law demands he be paid $1.60.

He is thus not only denied a job but also entry into the job market and the opportunity to advance. Prevented from starting at his own level, he may always be unemployed or semi-

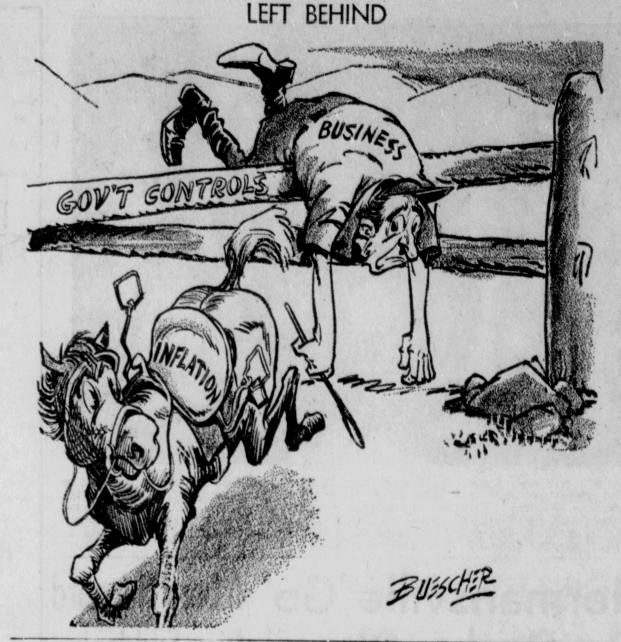

The result of this exclusion is a wide range of social problems costly to society in terms of money spent on welfare programs and human resources which go unused.

A "youth wage" would make it easier for such people to enter the job market and to become productive citizens. Experience gained at the lower youth rate could permit them to qualify for the regular minimum wage when they reached 21. A person who worked hard and applied himself would be on his way.

As it is, the uneducated or unskilled person who wants to work and to improve himself may never be able to climb the job ladder because the minimum wage makes the first step too large a one.

Maximum Exposure Could Be Drafty' Problem For Youth

are answers to some of the more frequently asked questions about the Selective Service lottery:

Q-Why is President Nixon messing around with the dim? The old method wasn't perfect, but at least most people under-

A-Under the previous method men were drafted between the ages of 19 and 26, the oldest first. It kept a guy wondering for up to seven years whetherand when-he might be drafted. Nixon wants to reduce that "agony of suspense."

Q-There's no "agony of suspense" in a lottery?

A-The lottery wasn't the only change. The most important change was this: a man's 19 and 26. Under Nixon's plan each man is fully exposed for one year at most; after that his chances of being drafted get

Q-You mean he is exposed to the draft when he is 19?

A-Not necessarily, but it's easy to get mixed up about that. The year in which he reaches his 19th birthday is the year he gets a number from the draft lottery. But he does not face his maximum exposure to the draft until the year after he has turned 19 or even later.

Q-What do you mean: "or even later?" A-A man faces maximum exposure for one calendar year. To be exposed, he must be at least 19 when the year begins, but not yet 26; and he must be 1-A, or become 1-A in that year. The first year in which he meets those two conditions is his maximum-exposure year, no matter what age he is, up to 26. Q-You keep talking about maximum exposure. What does that really mean? A-It means that in selecting men for military service in any one year, each local draft board will choose from among those men, 19 to 26, who are 1-A for the first time.

Q-What happens to guys not drafted that year?

New Group Exposed

A-Each year a new bunch of guys-those 19 and over who are 1-A for the first time-steps into the front rank of "maximum exposure" to the draft. The ones just finishing a maximum-exposure year step back into the second rank; the draft won't come after them again unless it first takes the entire "maximum exposure" group. And it would take a mobilization far bigger than Vietnam to make that happen.

Q-So each year, a new group of men faces maximum exposure, and the previous year's maximum-exposure group becomes harder to reach?

A-Right. Q-Okay. Out of each year's maximum-exposure group, how does a local draft board know whom to induct for service?

A-That's where the lottery comes in. The lottery gives each draft-age man a number from 1 to 366, and the local boards call men up by the numbers.

Q-Who gets called first? A-All the guys with number

Q-What makes him number Then Second Number

A-Right. Everybody with

WASHINGTON (AP)-Here second birthday drawn is number two. A-That's right. And so on up to the last birthday for number Q-How long does a man keep that number?

A-As long as he is subject to the draft under this systemthat is, until he reaches his 26th birthday.

Q-The first lottery was held Dec. 1. Who got numbers in A-Every man who has reached age 19 by Dec. 31, 1969, and who is not yet 26. Q-Will there be a new lottery every year? A-Yes, but only to give numbers to men who did not get them in an earlier lottery. That means, basically, men who exposure to the draft is no turn 19 during the year. Once longer equally intense through the lottery gives you a number, the seven-year span between you keep it. As far as your draft situation is concerned a number 177, for example, assigned last Monday night is exactly the same as a number 177 that will be assigned to some newcomer next year when his birthday goes into the glass jar. The only question is whether your number gets called by

mum exposure" year. Indicates Chances

the draft board in your "maxi-

Q-Since the low numbers are the first ones called, your number is a rough indication of your chances of being drafted. The White House offers this estimate as a rule of thumb: men with numbers in the first one-third of the list are almost sure to be drafted if they are 1-A; men in the middle onethird will have to wait and see; men in the last one-third will probably not be drafted.

Q-Can I count on that? The situation will be somewhat different in each local draft board, and the Pentagon may change its manpower estimates. The one-third rule is only a rough estimate, subject to unpredictable changes.

Q-Since the numbers are called by local draft boards, wouldn't a board with fewer men race through the list faster that a board with a large pool of men?

A-No, because draft quotas assigned to each board are proportional to the size of the board's draft pools. But the make-up of local pools can cause differences, so it is possible that some boards will be calling higher numbers than others at any particular time. A—How does all this affect deferments and exemptions?

Q-It doesn't. Men with deferments or exemptions may keep them as long as they are justified; men entitled to deferments or exemptions may still request and receive them as before. A deferred man faces the draft only if and when he loses his deferment and becomes 1-A or 1-A-O.

Q-Can a man give up his deferment late in the year and be "maximum exposed"

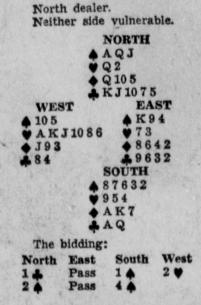

A-Giving up or losing a deferment exposes you for the entire year. If your number has already come up earlier in the year and you become 1-A, your draft board will go back and take you before it goes on up the list.

A-Yes, but not too heavily.

only a few months?

Contract Bridge

Opening lead-king of hearts. Afterthoughts don't count in bridge. You have to make your bids and plays while the hand is in progress, and it does no good, after a deal is finished, to say "I should adone this" or "I should done that." What counts is what you do, not what you say.

Here is a case in point. South was in four spades and West led the king of hearts followed by the ace, East playing highlow to show a doubleton.

West continued with the jack of hearts, ruffed in dummy with the jack and overruffed by East with the king. East returned a diamond and declarer had no trouble taking the rest of the tricks after drawing the remaining trumps with the A-Q.

East was the first to speak after the hand was over. He realized he had chucked the defense. "I shouldn't have overtrumped the jack and then we would automatically have beaten the hand," he said.

East's statement was certainly correct. There was no need for him to overruff the jack, since the king would just as surely have scored a trick later on had he discarded a club or a diamond instead of overruffing. By discarding on the third round of hearts he would later have made two trump tricks instead of one, and this would have been enough to set the passed away. I'm still in a state contract.

Lack Of Son Causing Trouble In Bangkok

teemed counsel appears in the Bangkok press anl I pray for a swift reply. Forgive please my English, Madame. It is not my best language.

Americans do not realize their luck in having no worse marriage problem than the eternal triangle. Life in other parts of the world is not so simple. I write in behalf of my uncle. At age 18, his parents ordered him to marry a lovely girl of their choice. She has been a most dutiful and loving wife but produced, unfortunately, four daughters and no man child. After six years, the father of my uncle expressed the wish that his son take another wife to insure a male descendant. The parents selected a second kind and lovely girl, somewhat younger than the first wife.

In four years Wife Number Two has produced three fine sons. My uncle has pleased his father immensely, but there is terrible fighting in the house between the two wives. They hate each other. As if this is not trouble enough, the commotion between the four daughters and the three sons keeps the entire household in a frightful uproar.

There is not sufficient money for two homes and I fear there will, one day, be a crime committed if something isn't done. If you can, please find in your wisdom a solution to this problem. You shall be blessed by many husbands in Asia.-Chang Lo-Tao weeks ago my beloved father of shock over the behavior of our relatives, immediately afand cousins descended on Mom's home like locusts, eating everything in sight. They always arrived at mealtime eight and ten strong expecting modest supply of liquor on hand. They drank up every drop, including the fine wine she had put away for special occasions. Her telephones were tied up by my uncles who were conducting business from the kitchen and the bedrooms. Worst of all was what they canaba Senior High School faculty had a Christmas party last night at the home of Miss Nina Ley, 809 S. 14th St. The party began with a potluck supper at six o'clock which was followed by cards. Gifts were exchanged. Miss Ley and Miss Helen Snyder arranged the evening entertainment. Guests were Roma Irons, Irma Bangs, Ruby Blizzel, Betty Delmore, Cleo Giannopoulos, Alice Potter, Mary Vaughan, Margaret Kranstover, Edna Marotz, Irma Loos and Bernadette Lochner.

Biafra War Remains The Worst Bloodbath

The late Sen. Robert Taft was critical of the Nuremberg trials, arguing that the prosecutor should not also be the judge.

One can see why Taft was so concerned. No nation ever emerges from a war with clean hands. If the Allies had lost World War II, they would surely have had trouble in court trying to justify the bombing of Dresden. The Soviets could have been hung for the massacre of the Polish officers in the Katyn Forest. Pearl Harbor was a moral blot on the Japanese; but Hiroshima stains our own record. And now, if the prejudgment stands up, there is Songmy to put against Hue.

The great powers, seeking political advantage from the moral lapses of others, turn to a diplomacy of hypocrisy. And nobody here is better or worse than anybody else.

The case of Biafra makes all the great nations look sick. It is almost too much to comprehend. Maybe one has to be touched by personal tragedy to have feelings about it. At any rate the strongest voice speaking out in the U.S. Senate on the Biafra tragedy is that of Sen. Edward Kennedy. The Russians and the British have supported the central Nigerian government in its efforts to end the secession of Biafra. The U.S., not wishing to offend either London or Moscow, has followed a handsoff policy. The Hypocrites, all some Senatorial action on Biafra. For months, so he told his colleagues, the survival of three million persons, mainly women and children, in Biafra had depended on mercy airlifts operated by the International Committee of the Red Cross and Joint Church Aid.

But since last June the Red Cross has not been able to get into Biafra. Joint Church Aid still sticks at it, but can't do much. The combatants can't arrive at a mercy agreement.

So, as Kennedy says, the death rate "stands at nearly 2,-000 a day, according to some reports." The "2,000 a day" have to be added to the 1,500,-000 persons who have died from starvation since 1968 in this totally unnecessary African struggle.

Teddy Kennedy says he is "distressed to learn that what we are propared to do is apparently measured more by what the federal Nigerian government is willing to tolerate, than by the maximum capabilities of Joint Church Aid in delivering food and medicine into the Biafran enclave."

Americans for Biafran Relief, an organization that has attracted sponsors from both the liberal and the conservative sides of the fence, is currently trying to raise $9 million to enable Joint Church Aid to fly food and medicine into nedy tried valiantly to spark selves, or to work out a federated arrangement with neighboring African states, why not let them? There is no virtue in centralization for its own Can oil diplomacy be at the back of the British engagement on the Nigerian side of the struggle? Recently there were reports of Biafran attacks on the Shell-British Petroleum consortium that has been extracting most of Nigeria's oil. Do the Soviets need Nigerian docks to service the ships they send around the Cape of Good Hope to help sustain the North Vietnamese in their fight to end the freedom of South Viet-

If oil and naval rights explain the British-Soviet united front against independence for Biafra, what explains the U.S. refusal to speak out in the United Nations? With our Alaskan discoveries we don't need Nigerian oil. And the use which the Russians have been making of Nigeria to break the long trip to Haiphong in North Vietnam should make us deeply angry. Sen. Kennedy is specially concerned about some of the projects in our AID requests for Nigeria. The AID demands for fiscal 1970 include "the rebuilding of key road sections" as part of "short-term rehabilitation assistance to federal Nigeria." The road section repair would enable the Nigerian government to move troops more easily against the Biafran enclave.

Is this our business? Must we whether Nigeria is one country help prolong one war while we

NOW Group Wants Equality Women's Activities For Women

NEW ORLEANS (AP) -President Nixon should send a woman to the moon and appoint one to the U.S. Supreme Court, a women's rights group says.

The group, the National Organization for Women (NOW), also objects to feminine names for hurricanes.

"Equality for women would bring male liberation, too, since men also are victimized by laws and practices which limit the roles of individuals in modern society." said author Betty Friedan, president of NOW.

NOW's board of directors concluded a three-day meeting Sunday by announcing it plans to file formal complaints charging discrimination against women by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in its training of astronauts and also its selection of top-level admin-

Mrs. Friedan, who wrote "The Feminine Mystique," said about 10 per cont of NOW's members - she wouldn't give the total - are men and added that the organization is the nation's largest working "for full equality for women in truly equal partnership with men."

The NOW board voted to urge Nixon to name "one or more of America's many eminently qualified women to fill present and future vacancies on the Supreme Court." Specifically mentioned by Mrs. Friedan were federal judges Sarah Hughes of Dallas, Tex., Constance Baker Motley of New York, and Shirley Hufstedler of Pasadena, Calif., and U.S. Rep.
